Entellus Medical Settles Patent Dispute

Maple Grove, MN, (February 17, 2011) -- Entellus Medical today announced that it has entered into a licensing agreement with Acclarent, Inc. in order to resolve their patent lawsuit. The license agreement is royalty bearing to Acclarent. Additional financial details were not disclosed.

As part of the agreement, the companies will file a joint request for the termination of a patent infringement proceeding brought by Acclarent against Entellus on July 28, 2010 in the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of California.

"We are pleased to have reached a mutually beneficial arrangement," said Brian Farley, Entellus President and CEO.
